Berlin Claims Gains in Italy

By EDWARD KENNEDY

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Feb. 9 (AP)—U. S. planes poured tons of bombs yesterday on Cisterna to cripple that main strongpoint of the Nazi line around the invasion bridgehead below Rome, while Allied troops struck out in "aggressive patrol activity," Allied headquarters announced today.

German patrols also were active in this vital sector, and Nazi artillery continued a heavy shelling of the beachhead.

(Today's German communique declared the Nazis had advanced several miles in the bridgehead area, capturing 700 prisoners. "Strong enemy counter-attacks with support of tanks and naval artillery were repulsed," the bulletin broadcast by Berlin added.

(A dispatch to Stockholm by the German-controlled Scandinavian telegraph bureau declared the waters off Nettuno "looked like a ship graveyard" as a result of German air attacks on Allied shipping.)

American troops battling into Cassino on the main front have occupied about one-fourth of that town, front dispatches said, and the doughboys at one time fought to within 75 yards of the Benedictine abbey on Mt. Cassino.

POUND NAZI FORTRESS

The U. S. forces launched a full strength attack in the pre-dawn darkness yesterday to take the cliffs surrounding the monastery on the mountain. The Germans have held mountain top for six days of stern battle. The Germans also hold a supply corridor to Cassino.

British troops also made a gain on the main Fifth Army front.

The Allies further consolidated their positions, headquarters said.

(A Berlin broadcast declared the Nazis had pierced Allied positions at several points in an attack "from the west, north and northwest" against the invasion bridgehead, and reached planned targets.)

1500 SORTIES

Allied planes flew 1500 sorties throughout the day, striking hard at German troop concentrations, airfields, port facilities, shipping and railyards over a wide area, and losing not a single plane.

More guns were brought up to join the artillery barrage supporting the American assault against Cassino to the east.

The British destroyer Mauritius and Dutch gunboat Flores participated in the bombardment near Formia, and one lucky hit blew up a munitions dump, inflicting considerable casualties on the Germans.

Allies' Advantage At Anzio Beach Lost

By WES GALLAGHER

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP)—Originally planned as a great offensive thrust to break the back of German resistance below Rome, the Anzio beachhead has become instead a Tobruk-like defensive position.

Because of Allied domination of the skies, there seems little danger that the beachhead forces will be pushed into the sea, but the job of maintaining them promises to be costly. The Allies face a steady drain on shipping from German rocket glider bombs.

It is apparent that the advantages of surprise and numerical superiority have been lost, for the Germans have brought in new divisions. There is no reason to suppose they will not be able to hold this advantage.

Carrier Ranger Sinks 6 Ships Off Norway

By JOSEPH A. BORS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (INS)—The Navy disclosed today that American planes from the U. S. aircraft carrier Ranger destroyed at least six German vessels totalling 40,000 tons in a surprise raid on enemy shipping off Norway last October.

The Ranger was operating with a British task force. The enemy vessels included four merchantmen, one tanker and an oil barge.

Other enemy vessels were damaged, two Axis planes were shot down, and the Ranger lost three aircraft in the foray, the Navy announced.

This was the first official disclosure of the Ranger's part in the war since the Navy denied a claim by Germany last April that a Nazi sub had sunk the carrier somewhere in the Atlantic.

The 14,500 ton "flat top" was the first American vessel ever designed and constructed as a carrier, and the Navy said she "is still at sea, carrying an illustrious war record and prepared for more forays against the enemy . . ."

Reds Smash at 3 Sides Of Periled Krivoi Rog

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Feb. 9 (AP)—Russian troops closed in on the iron center of Krivoi Rog today from three sides and also advanced in the direction of the Black sea ports of Kherson and Nikolaev after breaking the long and tenacious German defense in the Dnieper bend at Nikopol.

Hitler a Krivoi Rog may have repeated his more characteristic mistake in Russia—waiting too long before retreating. He lost 15,000 dead and 2000 captured as well as enormous stores of booty at Nikopol, a major source of manganese esstnoial for hardening German steel.

(The German communique reported heavy defensive fighting from Luga in the north to Nikopol in the south, asserting that "local infiltrations were sealed off or eliminated.")

The Germans have large numbers of infantry, tanks and aritlery at Krivoi Rog. There was no sign of withdrawal despite the threat of almost certain encirclement. The only railroad still open to the iron center leads to Dolovinka, a junction 40 miles west on the Nikolaev-Kiev line.

The Army newspaper Red Star said the 10 encircled Nazi divisions near Cherkasy were being exterminated and that the officers and men in the death pocket were losing hope.

The dispatch said officers no longer could encourage the men with hopes of rescue, because the best landing fields have been taken by the Russians and the others eare washed by rains and deep in mud.

The Germans were receiving fod only by parachute and much of this was falling into Russian hands.

Red Star reported the arrival of spring in the Dnieper bend after onc of the most phenomenally short and mild winters in generations. The newspaper said fruit trees were budding and grass was green in the meadows and that "roads exist only on maps," since actually they are quagmires of sticky mud.

The dispatch said German captives looked ridiculous in their snow coats with sweat rolling down their faces as they trudged to the rear.

U. S. Planes to Hit At Japs From China

By CHARLES H. McMURTRY

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Feb. 9 (AP)—All organized Japanese resistance has been snuffed out on Kwajalein, world's largest atoll. Already American warships and planes are diverting fire power from that nerve center of the Marshalls to other fortified atolls.

In the midst of these developments, strategists spoke hopefully of getting "our ground and air forces into China as early as possible."

The Navy imposed a policy of semi-secrecy last night in announcing that the fleet and air arm are swinging punches elsewhere in the Marshalls. The Navy did not disclose the targets.

REPAIR AIRFIELDS

Meanwhile, airfields on Roi and Kwajalein islands in Kwajalein atoll are being repaired and modernized.

Based at Kwajalein's spacious lagoon a large and as yet unchallenged fleet—not even attacked by enemy submarines—was alert against attempts to succor the enemy's Marshall garrisons.

"Organized resistance on Kwajalein atoll has ceased and its capture and occupation have been completed," Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced. Conquest was completed eight days after Kwajalein was invaded Jan. 31.

CHINA NEXT GOAL

Admiral Nimitz firmly believes that Japan cannot be defeated from the sea alone and said yesterday, after returning from the Kwajalein inspection, his objective is "to get our ground and air forces into China as early as possible."

To correspondents at a press conference he remarked "the Japs can only be defeated from bases in China" and, although giving no indication of such an offensive time table, added:

"I think that if you'll watch the communiques, you'll see us moving."

Reveal Hospital Strafed by Nazis

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN ITALY, Feb. 9 (AP)—Allied headquarters announced today enemy planes machine-gunned the American field hospital on the Anzio beachhead after bombing it Monday.

"One of our hospitals has been bombed and machine-gunned by enemy planes," the communique said, giving no further official details of the attack, which resulted in 27 deaths and 68 other casualties. Three American nurses were among the dead.

The hospital was in the open and clearly marked.

Mass funeral services for the victims were held in a tent chapel.

Tito Gives Nazis 'Devastating Defeat'

Bag 13 More Jap Planes at Rabaul

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Feb. 9 (AP)—Allied airmen have shot down 13 more Japanese planes over Rabaul, New Britain, making it 111 enemy aircraft reported destroyed there so far this month and putting this Nipponese South Pacific bastion high on the list of suicide assignments for the Mikado's pilots.

Gen. MacArthur's communique today said Mitchell medium bombers and Liberator heavies, with fighter cover—more than 150 planes—struck Lakunai airdrome at midday Sunday with 124 tons of bombs. The planes were from Adm. Halsey's bases in the Solomon Islands.

It was the seventh raid on Rabaul since Feb. 1 and the fifth on Lakunai Field. One pilot commented, "that runway is in a hell of a mess."

Air Smashes Hit New Peak

By CHARLES A. SMITH

LONDON, Feb. 9 (INS)—The non-stop air offensive against the invasion coast of northern France roared to a new crescendo by daylight today when huge formations, including virtually every type medium bomber and fighter-bomber shuttled across the channel.

Th assault got under way soon after RAF night raiders returned from attacks on Germany and France. Throughout the morning the huge formations roared overhead, with American B-26 Marauder medium bombers playing a leading role. The Marauders teamed up with British, Canadian and other Allied planes.

Cheli, U. S Air Hero, May Be Jap Prisoner

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, Feb. 9 (AP)—Possibility that Maj. Ralph Cheli, one of this sector's few recipients of the Congressional Medal of Honor, is alive and a prisoner of the Japanese at Rabaul was seen today in a Japanese English broadcast heard in Australia. The Japs said Cheli and two companions had been rescued and are prisoners.

Japs Gloating? Propaganda, Strikers Say

FALL RIVER, Feb. 9—Scoffing at reports the Japanese short-wave radio was gloating over the tieup of war production in Fall River, striking union members today labeled the story as "propaganda" and continued their defiance of an Army ultimatum to return to work.

None of the officials would permit use of his name in connection with his comment on the Jap broadcasts. On striker declared:

"It doesn't make any difference. I don't believe it, anyway. That's propaganda. The Japs don't even know what's going on in Fall River."

Col. Curtis G. Pratt, Army officer in charge of the seven strike-crippled mills, was not available for comment on the Jap broadcasts.

He conferred with his staff to determine the next step in the deadlock which resulted when the workers refused to go back to work in compliance with an Army work call.

The striking units are the loom fixers, knot tiers and slasher tenders' independent unions.

FBI agents were said to be in the city, seeking evidence to support any action which may be contemplated. It was emphasized that under the Smith-Connally act, workers as individuals have a right to remain away from work and it is up to the FBI to decide whether the strikers act "in concert" or are "encouraged."

Army spokesmen reported that several thousand CIO textile workers, who make up the bulk of this city's mill employes and who hold a collective bargaining contract with the mill operators, checked in for work at 6 a. m.

The workers who did report were sent home to await a further call. They are eligible to receive half a day's pay because the Army had sounded the work order.

Approximately 1000 of the craftsmen voted unanimously at a mass meeting last night to defy the Army back-to-work order and continue their strike until the CIO preference clauses are removed from their work contracts.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9 (INS)—A divorce summons has been served on Maj. Horace E. Dodge, millionaire auto magnate, by attorneys for his estranged wife, Martha (Mickey) Devine Dodge, it was disclosed today.

Japs Gloat Over Fall River Strike

By the Associated Press

Reflecting the close attention with which American labor problems are followed in Axis countries, the Tokyo radio broadcast today these two items which the Domei News Agency said had been received via Lisbon:

(1) "A dispatch from Fall River, Mass., said the United States Army took over operation of seven textile plants last night at the direction of Roosevelt owing to a strike by independent unions which struck against CIO contracts with the mills."

(2) "A Kansas City dispatch said 100 tons of war material lay on docks, in warehouses and on station platforms when 600 truck drivers employed by 41 companies walked out today protesting the War Labor Board's refusal to grant wage increases."

This Associated Press dispatch has been called to the attention of Army officials now in charge of struck textile plants in Fall River by the editor of the Boston American.

British Admire Yankee Speed

By AUSTEN LAKE

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND (by transport mail)—Here is a rustic village where the "main" street (there is only one) makes a natural setting for a movie version of David Copperfield. But the Dickinsonian illusion is spoiled by the snort of big G. I. half-tracks, loaded with war gear, as they rumble between the rush-roofed cottages—cottages in need of haircuts, like yokels grown shaggy around the neckbands.

They lean—these houses—'gainst one another in mutual support in the manner of old rumpots deep in their cups, their windows like bleary eyes and the doors open mouths that appear ready to burst into maudlin song. Yet, actually, this is a sedate community where life revolves around its square-towered church and the neat vicarage. There is only one tavern in the town and I am in it.

There is a courtyard outside which may have known Nel Gwynn's coach-and-four where new canvas-hooded 81 mm. mortors squat like bullfrogs. From my leaded casement windows many a vanished eye has watched centuries of English soldiery march to forgotten wars—the cause of which none now remembers. But never before have they looked down on such soldiery as these—men in American mustard who loiter the last twilight hours on benches that remember the lusty fellowship of Sir John Falstaff.

Cot in Every Room

Every inch of the little town's lodgings have been taken over. Each room contains cots, iron G. I., and spread and blankets, wool, O. D.—as the Q. M. invoices always reverse common language. Rifles, packs and dunage hang from beamed ceilings where once Cromwell quartered his "Roundheads" and now are housed youths from Jamaica Plain, Roxbury and Hyde Park.

So the old town, like most other English hamlets, is adding a new chapter to its tradition, made by such men as Col. Bill F. Haverty of 226 Chestnut st., Jamaica Plain, who used to work in Newspaper Row and is pleased with the V. of F. W.'s newsletter sent by Commander A. E. Dixon. And Cpl. GIRL FINDS MOTHER DEAD, DAD DYING

Despite prompt action of a 28-year-old South Boston girl who was awakened by the odor of gas in their Telegraph st., South Boston home, her elderly mother was dead today and her father in critical condition ata the Boston City Hospital, both victims of illuminating gas seeping through the house.

Esther Sullivan, 28, upon detecting the gas, rushed into the bedroom of her parents, Nora, 73, and John Sullivan, 77. She broke the window and called the fire department and Dr. Peretz Singer, of Preble st., South Boston.

The body of the father was carried into another room, after the mother was pronounced dead, and after artificial respiration was applied, the father was taken to the hospital where his name was placed on the danger list.

The gas came from a gas heater in the living room. Police believe the heater jet was turned down last night and the flame blew out during the night.

U. S. Cigarettes Identify Chutist

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Feb. 9 (AP)—American cigarettes were good enough identification for Staff Sergt. Martin Wobst, 21, of Southampton, Long Island, when English farmers, taking no chances, came at him with pitchforks when he landed by parachute from a Flying Fortress that had run out of fuel on the return from Stuttgart, Germany.

"They asked for identification," he related. "Then I remembered I had forgotten to wear my dog tags that morning. I fumbled around for some sort of official-looking paper. I found nothing. As a last resort I pulled out a pack of cigarettes and said, 'Look. American cigarettes. Isn't this good enough?' It was."

Senator Weeks to Back Aid for War Veterans

Asserting that "those boys are doing their jobs now and we should do a job for them here at home," the newly-appointed U. S. Sen. Sinclair Weeks told the Boston American today that he is "in favor, and will be, of all legislation aiding veterans of World War II."

Sen. Weeks, with his appointment by Gov. Saltonstall not yet 24 hours old, was busy resigning from all his business connections at his offices in the Statler Building as he spoke of the soldiers in the present war.

A veteran of World War I, with two of his sons in the service, he explained that he is not yet fully informed on the veterans' legislation, but he said:

"I think our government should do everything possible for the returning servicemen. I may differ in a few details pertaining to legislation, but whatever I can do to help the veterans will be done."

LEAVES SUNDAY

The new senator named to fill the post vacated by Maj. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., who resigned last Friday to re-enter the Army for combat service, will leave for Washington next Sunday, he said, and will live there temporarily with a sister, Mrs. John W. Davidge.

Later he will take an apartment where he and Mrs. Weeks will reside.

The old John W. Weeks estate in Valentine st., West Newton, has been closed this winter and Sen. Weeks and his wife have been dividing their time between Lancaster, N. H., and an apartment in Beacon st., Back Bay.

"Today has been a pretty busy day for me—quitting all my jobs," he said. "A year from now I'll probably be back here looking for one.

"I'm pleased, however, to serve as Senator. I had no plan to be a candidate for any political office and this is an easy way out."

RESIGNS MANY JOBS

Weeks was resigning the following jobs:

Director in the Atlas Plywood Corp., the Champion International Co., the Fibre Can Machinery Corp., the First National Bank of Boston, the Gillette Safety Razor Co., the New River Co., the Pacific Mills, Rand Avery-Gordon Taylor, Inc., and the West Point Manufacturing Co.

Also as chairman of the board and director of United-Carr Fastner Corp.; president and director, Reed and Barton Corp.; executive committee member, Associated Industries of Massachusetts, and regional vice-president, director and executive committee member of the National Ass'n of Manufacturers.

Constantly he was interrupted by phone calls from friends wishing to offer congratulations, and always he had an eye on the clock because he had an appointment with his wife for lunch.

QUIZZED BY REPORTERS

In between, he answered questions of reporters, though he turned some aside by stating he must first get used to his new job and become acquainted with his duties.

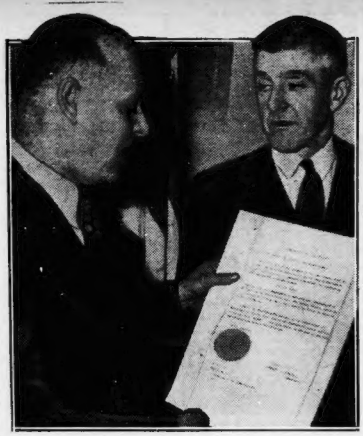
He was asked what he thought of the reported movement to freeze the President and Congress in their posts for another year, skipping election this fall, and he replied:

"I think the proposition is perfectly absurd. The history of our democracy proves that we can hold elections in the midst of war. As far as the conduct of the war is concerned, it is the desire and intention of all this nation to fight the enemy into unconditional surrender.

BEGAN AS ALDERMAN

"Such a proposition as postponing the elections is an insult to the American people, regardless of their party affiliations. Anyhow, it would be unconstitutional and would necessitate each state ratifying such a change. The hour now is too late."

Weeks will serve until next Jan. 3, when he will surrender his seat to the victor in the senatorial race in next fall's election.



Sinclair Weeks, treasurer of the Republican national committee, reads his certificate of appointment to the U. S. Senate by Gov. Saltonstall. Weeks will replace Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., who retired to enter the Army. Gov. Saltonstall will seek the Senate office in the fall election. Associated Press Photo

Legion Head Scores Delay on Vets' Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—Penny-pinching tactics of misguided congressmen threaten to undermine the "omnibus bill" for returning servicemen and women, National Comdr. Warren H. Atherton of the American Legion warned today.

The bill, known as the "Bill of Rights for G-I Joe and G-I Jane" and sponsored by the Legion, is scheduled to be submitted for debate by the veterans' sub committee of the Senate finance committee Friday.

Chairman Bennett Champ Clark, the Senator from Missouri, said committee work on the measure may be completed by Saturday night and the bill reported onto the floor of the Senate next week.

Full support of the Senate membership is expected but more of a battle is foreseen when the measure goes from the Senate to the House.

"There seems to be some opposition to this bill in Congress," Legion Comdr. Atherton said.

RAPS FALSE ECONOMY

"Most deadly of all opposition is a false economy wave, aimed only at the veterans.

"While billions are being spent for foreigners in the four corners of the world, efforts are being made to pare down the money desperately needed to help your boy when he comes back," the Legion chief declared.

Atherton predicted that if the public does its part for the men in the fighting forces, passage of the veterans' "bill of rights" will be a certainty.

Through radio broadcasts, newsreels, public meetings, petitions, letters and telegrams, the Legion is opening a whirlwind campaign to win overwhelming public support for the measure.

FURLOUGHS WITH PAY

Meanwhile, Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire has introduced legislation whereby members of the armed forces would be entitled to furloughs with full pay up to 12 months, to help ease the transition from military to civilian life.

His proposal, submitted in the form of an amendment to the recently enacted mustering-out pay law, suggests that when a serviceman's usefulness in uniform seems ended, a three-month furlough be granted.

In this time, the servicemen would have an opportunity to seek work while receiving full service pay. The three-month period would be renewable, up to a total of 12 months. Then, on discharge, the veteran would receive mustering-out pay, reduced by the amount of pay received during the furlough.

Grew Backs Labor Draft

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (INS)—Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Japan, today urged enactment of national service legislation and warned the nation must prepare for "a long hard pull" to conquer Japan.

Testifying before the Senate military affairs committee, he declared the draft labor program would help speed up war production and shorten the day of victory.

Grew said: "The recent disclosure of the unspeakable barbarity and atrocities of the Japanese military in the Philippines and elsewhere call on all of us to leave no practicable steps untaken that will shorten by as much as a day or an hour the power of the Japanese to continue their utterly bestial methods of waging war."

Tainted Meat Sale Nets Store $50 Fine

Something new in proposed out-of-court settlements—a luscious leg of lamb, a rousing big roast of beef and a tender turkey—was described in Roxbury court today.

And, according to the testimony, the offer was turned down!

After cogitating over this ration-era marvel, Judge James Delay fined the Wellworth Market, Washington st., Roxbury, $50 for selling tainted meat. The company appealed.

It had been haled into court by Mrs. Evelyn Baker, Cedar st., Roxbury, the woman who turned a deaf ear to the reported offer of precious fodder. She said the market sold her a sirloin roll unfit to eat.

"After I gave them $3.70 and 72 points," she added.

Inspector Charles F. O'Connor of the city health department's food division testified he had condemned the meat after Mrs. Baker brought it to him. He said he went to the market and saw Louis Siegal, the owner.

O'Connor said Siegal asked him, "What do you want me to do?"

His answer, O'Connor said, was that he wasn't running Siegel's business. He added:

"He offered Mrs. Baker a leg of lamb, a roast of beef and a turkey, but she said she didn't want any more of his meat."

The market's counsel contended that Mrs. Baker was erroneous in believing she had bought the sirloin there. The attorney called it, "a case of mistaken identity."

WFA Fights to Hold 10,000 Tons of Butter

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (AP)—The War Food Administration is waging a "behind-the-scenes" fight to hold a 20,000,000-pound "bank reserve" of butter for possible emergency needs by the military forces, foreign relief agencies, lend-lease recipients, or American civilians.

Requests for release of WFA stocks developed after publication of reports that the government held about 130,000,000 pounds of butter on Feb. 1 and that additional supplies were being brought in from Argentina.

Casey May Run For Lodge Seat

Joseph E. Casey of Clinton, defeated for the Senate in 1942 by former Sen. Lodge, today said he was going to "think about" running in November for Lodge's vacancy.

Casey said he had reached no decision on whether to campaign for the post. He is now a confidential secretary to President Roosevelt and will leave soon on a business trip to California.

Chairman William H. Burke of the Democratic state committee called the Weeks appointment "purely a matter of the Governor's choice." He said he knew of no Democratic candidates for the governorship "at this time."

Daughter Calls Hotel Murder Theory Absurd

CHICAGO, Feb. 9—Mrs. Patricia Goodbody, 28-year-old daughter of the slain Mrs. Frank Starr Williams, describes as "completely absurd and untrue" a veteran police lieutenant's theory that her mother was accidentally killed in her Drake Hotel room Jan. 19 after they had engaged in a struggle for a revolver.

The latest theory in the puzzling case was advanced yesterday by Lieut. John Quinn, one of the first officers to arrive at the scene of the crime. It climaxed a five-hour coroner's inquest and contradicted previous theories that branded the fatal shooting as the crime of a mysterious gunwoman.

CALLED FANTASTIC

Quinn's views on the slaying immediately were termed "too fantastic," and "ridiculous," by Williams, a State Department attache, and as "fantastic beyond belief" by Mrs. Williams' sister, Mrs. Robert A. Roos. Later, Mrs. Goodbody, who was not present when Quinn testified, asserted:

"Lieut. Quinn's story is completely absurd and untrue. I'm withholding nothing. I've told everything I know that happened. I've told it over and over again."

The officer followed a dozen other witnesses who testified at the inquest. Asked if he had formed any conclusions about the crime, he said:

"I have. It is my belief there was a fight between Patricia (Mrs. Goodbody) and her mother, and I do not believe there was a third party in the room."

Continuing his testimony, Quinn related that Mrs. Willians had taken a gun from a trunk and shot at her daughter, "and Patricia ducked. I think there was a struggle, and that another shot went wild. I think Mrs. Williams then was shot accidentally."

GIVEN CLEAN BILL

Mrs. Goodbody had been given the so-called lie-detector test and had been given a "clean bill" by police.

She testified earlier that an unidentified, middle-aged woman, hiding in the bathroom when she entered, fired at her without effect, then ran out of the bathroom and fired several more shots at her mother.

Mrs. Williams, who died 25 hours after the shooting, had told police: "I never saw her before. I can't understand it at all. She just came out shooting without a word."

He questioned "Pat" after the slaying, Quinn said, and "she didn't give satisfaction." He went on:

"I said, 'Pat, I don't think you're telling the truth. Where's that gun?'

"She said, 'Well, I'll tell you, lieutenant—'

"Then Atty. Thomas Rosenberg interrupted her and said:

"'Now, Quinn, you promised to let Pat go to the hospital.' And she never did finish what she was going to say about the gun.

"I'm convinced there was a struggle between two people for that gun and that no third person was involved."

TELLS OF FLIGHT

Prosecutor Joseph Pope, seemingly irked at Quinn's dramatic outburst, recalled that Stanley Cook told of seeing a woman "run out of Room 836," after hearing shots, and of hearing Patricia cry a warning to "stop that crazy woman." Lieut. Quinn, undisturbed replied:

"That may be. But as I remember it, the woman wasn't seen coming out of the room."

Statements made by Cook and Clyde Brewster were read into the record. Both statements were identical on major points, and both seemed to corroborate Mrs. Goodbody's story.

Two subsequent witnesses offered testimony on the supposed flight of the mysterious gunwoman.

Louis Andrews, captain of Drake room service, said he was stepping into a service elevator at the rear of the hotel at the sixth floor level when a woman in a black Persian lamb coat came down the stairs, raced past and continued her descent by the stairway. She was concealing something in her hand, he said, adding that her hair was red. (Other witnesses said the killer's hair was gray.)

Ambulance driver Pringle Terrill said he'd basked his ambulance to the Walton st. hotel entrance when a woman in a dark coat hurried to a parked car and drove rapidly west. She was shielding her face with one hand.

The inquest was continued to March 3.

50 P. C. OF HUB RESTAURANTS UNDER FIRE

Fifty per cent of the downtown Boston restaurants investigated by the OPA are violating price schedules, it was charged today in a warning by Chairman Frederick W. Mansfield of the Boston War Price and Rationing Board.

Mansfield warned restaurant and cafe owners to kepe prices in line before "more drastic steps" are made necessary.

A continuing survey, which is expected to cover all the 900 eating establishments in downtown Boston already has resulted in visits to 225—and half of these are not living up to the letter of the price law, Mansfield asserted.

"While it is entirely within the province of the price panel of the local board to refer all violations to the enforcement division of the OPA," he said, "I am first seeking the co-operation of the restaurant trade in obtaining uniform compliance before making such a move.

"It is only fair to the operators of all eating establishments in the city of Boston to let them know that we are determined to see that OPA regulations are complied with."

Mothers Favorites In War Valentines

By PAULINE WARREN

Brother—can you spare a valentine?

The latest boom to hit Boston is a mad rush for those lacy, tender messages usually exchanged by sweethearts on Feb. 14th.

This year thousands of service men and women, stationed far from home, are trying to down their homesickness with the help of these frilly bits they are dispatching not only to their heart's choice but to friends, relatives and practically every member of their families as well.

Stocks remain adequate so far, although sales have zoomed to almost double last years. Sentiments can be found to fit almost any demand—from one appropriate to send to a former maid to a card for "the mother of one who is very dear to me."

MOTHER COMES FIRST

In fact the mother theme this year almost predominates over the sweetheart appeal. Satin hearts costing as high as $2.50 are bought readily by lonesome service men when inscribed with some touching tribute to mother. Also selling well are various cards titled: "To one who has been like a mother to me."

According to greeting card companies taste is more sophisticated this year and even the comic valentines must coat their jibes with subtlety.

MOST POPULAR MESSAGE

Most popular message of all is the one stressing the missing angle or using the word "lonesome." The shops do not keep up with the demand for this type and it is clamored for by mothers, sisters, wives and girl friends, as well as by servicemen.

New themes are valentines for "buddies," to be exchanged between men, and the facetious ones sent from girl-to-girl bemoaning the man shortage.

To a service man who hasn't been home in a year or so a valentine seems to make an irresistible appeal and many admit this is the first year they ever bought one.

Joan Fontaine Aids Bond Drive

SUFFIELD, Ct., Feb. 9 (AP)—A gown and accessories worn by Joan Fontaine in her latest motion picture brought a high bid of $30,000 in war bond purchases when auctioned at a war bond rally here last night.

Joan Fontaine

The costume went to Mr. and Mrs. E. Standish Bradford, Jr., who also purchased an autographed photograph of the actress for $4500 in war bonds.

Miss Fontaine and her actor husband, Brian Aherne, who are living here this winter, participated in the rally.

Curb on Cupid

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 9 (AP)—A bill which would require a thrice-divorced person to obtain Supreme Court permission for remarriage within three years was introduced in the New York Legislature today to curb those who the sponsor said "turn marriage into a hobby."

SAILOR KILLED IN STREET ROW, POLICE SAY

Indications a street fight led to the death of John C. Cruthers, Navy man and New York sexton's son, whose body was found on Friend st. yesterday, were disclosed today by police.

The revealed the 26-year-old sailor's peajacket was found near his body, as though he had removed it in an altercation.

On a building not far from where Cruthers' body was discovered, police found flesh fragments which were turned over to Frank Stratton, department chemist.

Previously, Medical Examiner Brickley had expressed belief the sailor was "definitely murdered" and his body carried from the site of attack.

Investigation of his death was being conducted on three fronts today, with FBI and Naval intelligence officers joining the case.

Supt. Fallon said the homicide bureau had obtained a photograph of Cruthers. This was being shown to bartenders and tavern proprietors in an effort to learn whether the sailor had been seen leaving their places with anyone.

Cruthers, who had been stationed at the Fargo barracks, Summer st., South Boston, was the son of George Cruthers, sexton of the Morrisania Presbyterian Church, the Bronx, N. Y.

Happy Birthday For Lana Turner

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 9 (AP)—Society note: They threw a birthday surprise party at M-G-M last night for Lana Turner, back doing her first picture since the birth of her daughter six months ago.

December's Spirit Hoax Costs Him May

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 9 (AP)—Dozens of letters supposedly from out of this world—from the spirit world, indeed—found their way into her home, says Mrs. Virginia Cepparo, 29, and her 55-year-old voice-teaching husband, Leon, now admits he wrote them.

He wrote the missives, Cepparo testified in the couple's divorce battle yesterday, to urge his wife to have a love affair with a younger man in the hope the experience would send her back to him.

"I believed she would be so disgusted with herself that she would come back to me and be happy," declared the graying, sharp-featured voice coach.

SUGGESTS SEANCE

One of the letters, produced in court, read:

"It was I who urged the young man to make his feelings known to you because therein rests the solution of all your troubles, physical and domestic. Your husband has definite reason to believe that the promotion of your strength and the preservation of your beauty depend largely upon your relations with a youth.

"You have attracted to yourself this beautiful, talented and sweet boy who is still clean, untouched, who can give you power and joy and bring harmony into your home . . .

"In order to acquaint your husband with the facts concerning the young man, I suggest that Saturday evening, late you casually invite him to sit for a psychic seance.

"You will contact a force that will disclose your health and your physical needs. The name of the boy will be suggested. Your husband will no doubt agree if he is acceptable to you; you will make him understand that he is; let him do the rest.

"Your husband understands your needs and will gladly sacrifice himself to help you . . ."

BOY, 18, CONSIDERED

Under questioning, Cepparo declared he had had no particular young man in mind for the lover's role and denied specifically that he had considered an 18-year-old who had posed for Mrs. Cepparo, a student sculptress, and had been his voice pupil.

The divorce action, alleging cruelty, was filed by Mrs. Cepparo, formerly of Big Spring, Tex. Cepparo, who came here in 1930 from Seattle, filed a cross-complaint on the same ground.

Her complaint charged he beat her and threatened her life.

It said she had been Cepparo's voice student since she was 14 and "after 14 years of his lessons I am unable to sing at all." Wed in 1935, they separated a year ago.

Word to Wise

LONDON, Feb. 9 (AP)—Giving a succinct hint to Britons, the Daily Mail carried a cartoon on the "grand all-American presidential championship" under the caption, "Seconds Keep Out."

The cartoon depicted a gym with Roosevelt and Willkie rapping punching bags and Dewey skipping rope while the doorman, with an Uncle Sam beard, sneers at a meek British face trying to peak in the door and orders, "Scram, this is private, see!"

Poland Train Wrecks Kill 1000 Germans

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—More than 1000 German soldiers have perished in a series of train wrecks in central Poland, as a result of recent guerrilla sabotage, the Polish Telegraph Agency reported from London today.

The Warsaw-Berlin express was blown up at Szymanow, and a transport carrying reinforcements to the Russian front was derailed at Skurda, these contributing the greatest German losses. A third German express train was partly destroyed at Celestynow.

Jail Warden Quits, Won't Hang Slayer

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 9 (AP)—Warden M. F. Amrine of the Kansas State Prison resigned last night rather than supervise an execution which he described as an "evasive action, unworthy of a civilized, progressive state."

He handed the resignation to Gov. Andrew Schoeppel after the State's chief executive denied clemency for Fred L. Brady and set April 15 as the date of his death by hanging.

REDS DENY TERRITORIAL GAIN PLANS

MOSCOW, Feb. 9 (AP)—The Soviet trade union magazine "War and the Working Class" today characterized as Nazi-inspired any suggestions that the new powers recently granted the 16 Soviet republics in the field of foreign relations were designed ot achieve territorial gains.

At the same time, the publication scoffed at suggestions the Soviet Union would "return to isolationism." In another long article, a writer named Tolchenov blueprinted how the continent should be invaded, pointing out where the blow ought to be delivered and how.

The leading article said it was natural for the individual Soviet republics to become federalized, noting that Russia was the biggest country in Europe and had the largest population.

The invasion article said that "the landing operations of the Allies south of Rome confirms the existence of unprotected intermediate lines on the European coast."

China Ready to Deal With Red Republics

New Fuel Oil Shortage Looms

Fuel oil for New England still is scarce and it will be scarcer by the end of February in spite of the fact that stocks are much better than a year ago.

Both Gov. Saltonstall and a congressional committee in Washington disclosed the situation in separate statements.

"I don't like to be crying 'wolf,' but the fuel oil situation is growing worse in Massachusetts and New England and will get much worse the end of this month and the first of March," the Governor said after conferring with Richard J. Doherty, state emergency conservator.

Japs Assert U. S. Airmen Killed 58 Missionaries in Attack on Barges Near Wewak

By the Associated Press

The Tokyo radio asserted today that American airmen had killed 58 and seriously wounded 80 missionaries or members of their families in a machine-gun attack against Japanese barges near Wewak, New Guinea last Sunday.

The "authorities concerned" will soon submit a detailed report to the Vatican about the "inhuman machine-gunning," said the broadcast, which apparently was part of a propaganda campaign touched off by Allied disclosures of Japanese war atrocities.

Jap-Yank Exchange By Board Favored

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9—Capitol Hill discussion centered today around the proposal of the Hearst newspapers for establishment of a special congressional commission on American prisoners of war in Japan.

Principal need in such a commission, members of Congress have agreed in discussion of the proposal, is the selection of such a notable group of the national House and Senate, with Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Japan, acting in an advisory capacity, that the Japanese would be forced to view the commission with respect.

To impel the national administration to assist rather than impede the movement, several members of the House planned to approach influential Administration representatives and senators in the first steps toward the setting up of the commission.

As conceived in the preliminary discussions of the congressmen, the commission, a ways and means organization, would collaborate with the State Department where possible, and supplement State Department efforts, but would be free to approach the problem along many channels closed to the diplomats by masses of solidified international usage and protocol.

It was reported by members of Congress who have visited the State Department that the department itself realizes it is hidebound by traditional diplomatic procedures and would not protest the creation of an independent agency, provided it operated on the basis of knowledge and not entirely on emotion.

This purported attitude of the department would clear the way for Grew's affiliation with the Congressional commission. He is now a special assistant to Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

There Is No Potato Like A

MAINE POTATO

WHEN I RECEIVED A LETTER not so long ago praising the flavor of our potatoes and asking specifically what kind we used, my answer ran something like this . . . "Unqualifiedly and without a single reservation, for thirty years we have held firm to our belief that nowhere else in the length and breadth of this land are there grown potatoes quite so good as those from the State of Maine."

● But in my reply candor obliged me to tell this person that even the best potato in the world loses its fine flavor unless cooked just right . . . that I knew of no vegetable that suffered more harsh treatment, and therefore oftentimes was a disappointment.

● Over the years we have had many words of praise regarding our potatoes, not only mashed or fried, but baked, hashed brown and boiled. We have spent a lot of time developing the way we cook potatoes and indeed it requires an expert job. We mean to see that every time you receive potatoes in our cafeterias they are mealy and delicious, full of the good earth's fine flavors, hearty and nourishing.

● And this extra care we give to this most common of all vegetables perhaps is why our customers consume so many of them. Last year we used a bit over 70,000 bushels, and that you will admit is a lot of potatoes.

Navy Nurses Get 1st Closeup of Fighting

By LEIF ERICKSON

ABOARD U. S. NAVY HOSPITAL SHIP, KWAJALEIN, MARSHALL ISLANDS, Feb. 8 (delayed) (AP)—Navy nurses aboard this hospital ship were the first American women to have a close-up of the offensive action against the Japanese in the Pacific.

They didn't have much time to watch planes, field artillery and warships slugging the Japanese defenders of Kwajalein. They had to buckle down to caring for the wounded brought out from shore.

They were tremendously impressed with what they saw of the fighting.

"My felings were mixed," said Lieut. (jg) Evelyn Erickson, Grand Forks, N. D., who witnessed the Dec. 7 attack on Pearl Harbor.

"I was glad to see it in reverse—we giving it and the Japs taking it. But I really didn't like seeing bombs and shells exploding. I've seen what happens to our men in battle. I don't like it—I don't like it at all."

Capt. A. L. Bryan, New London, Ct., the ship's senior medical officer, was busy operating on a seriously wounded man in the air conditioned operating room when Lieut. (jg) Sophia G. Monteville, Rogers Park, Chicago, Ill., guided us in.

SURGEONS ON OVERTIME

Bryan and his surgical staff had been working steadily at three operating tables then for nearly 24 hours. Cheerfully he explained through his mask that "we're pretty busy here right now. But go right ahead and look at whatever you want to see."

Nurse Monteville, who directs the ship's staff of 12 women nurses and scores of medical corpsmen, led the way into a ward supervised by Ensign Romaine Mentzer, Ephrata, Pa. As Miss Mentzer moved about, she talked and smiled gently to the wounded lying in three-tiered cots, and they smiled back trustfully.

Nurse Mentzer was very tired. But her pretty face was expertly made up with just the right touches of lipstick and rouge. She was looking her best under trying circumstances.

One boy, with several shrapnel wounds, groaned with pain and called for the nurse. "I'm having terrible cramps," he moaned, laying a hand on his abdomen. "Can't you give me a shot of something?"

Quickly the nurse brought over a syringe, jabbed its needle into the man's arm. "This will help you get some sleep," she said.

THIS IS ROUGH

In her ward there were several men who had just arrived in landing boats from the Army's medical aid station on the beach. Dried blood from their wounds caked on some of them.

"This is rough," admitted Nurse Mentzer. "We've never worked with men brought straight from battle like this. They always had been cleaned up pretty well before we saw them."

Dr. C. E. Jeffries, Santa Ana, Cal., pointed to a man lying peacefully asleep in a bunk. "Both of his legs are gone," he said. "He's had morphine."

While Nurse Monteville guided us through the wards, landing boats circled the gangway with litter loads of wounded. Crew corpsmen worked steadily, lifting litters from the boats and carrying the men up the gangway. It looked as if there would be no end to the work for the doctors and nurses.

But there was. By late afternoon the ship was loaded to its capacity, including cots set up on top of the decks with canvas stretched from overhead to the rail. When the vessel pulled out it carried most of the men wounded in the Kwajalein action. (Official navy casualty figures announced Monday placed the number of U. S. Army and Marine wounded on Kwajalein at 1148).

En route to established military hospitals, all of our casualties will have the benefit of treatment by skilled doctors and the best and latest in hospital equipment.

Several wounded Japanese and Koreans aboard were getting the same treatment as our men.

Msgr. Sheen Flays Red Blast at Vatican

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9 (AP)—Msgr. Fulton J. Sheen, in sharply worded criticism of Soviet agitation against the Vatican, declared that it is only natural for the Catholic Church to be opposed by a government "that has between eight and 10 million political prisoners doing slave labor in Russia."

"No democratic nation has charged the Vatican with 'lack of sympathy,'" the Catholic prelate said in a statement.

"Only the Fascists, Nazis and the Soviets have done so and that is because the Vatican condemned all three."

The government-controlled press in Soviet Russia published charges that the Vatican supported Fascism—Franco in Spain and Mussolini in Italy—and Nazism in Germany.

Yesterday, Tass (official Soviet news agency) quoted a German refugee along the same lines, and Monsignor Sheen commented:

"The second blast of the Soviets became necessary because the first fell flat."

The Tass story was written around a pamphlet by Leopold Mannaberg emphasizing what was termed "the leading role the Vatican played in the Fascists' and Nazis' rise to power." It was published in New York and distributed in this country.

Monsignor Sheen said "when the Soviets declare that the Vatican is the enemy of democracy, they mean it is the enemy of their kind of democracy."

4th Degree Rites Feb. 20

The grand exemplification of the Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, will be held at 2 p. m., Sunday, Feb. 20, at the Copley Plaza Hotel under the direction of Sir Knight John J. Delay, master for the Massachusetts district.

A large class of candidates will be initiated, with members from almost every council in the state. A banquet will follow the ceremony and Pres. Edward A. Sullivan of Salem Teachers College will give the principal address.

National and state officers to be present include the Rt. Rev. Francis L. Phelan, S. T. L., state chaplain; Hon. John E. Swift, LL. D., deputy supreme knight; Hon. Frank W. Tomasello, state deputy; and Thomas F. Locke, vice supreme master, Cabot province.

"hackies" wheel around Picadilly. (His sister, Martha, is a Marine Cpl.).

And Sergt. Victor M. Gemelli of 44 Bellevue st., Dorchester (and there friends is a "vocal" man) who was national lightweight champ in '26, and belonged to Dan Carroll's vast boxing stable. And Sergt. George Tsiknas of Hyannis now training under Gemelli for the division button-biffing tourney and used to, sezzee, "work behind the stick" (English—"Draw beer") for his Dad's sea grill. (The mere mention of his Pop's fried scallops nearly caused some manly carnage by listening Boston G. I. S.)

Also Pvt. Ronald V. Murphy of 73 Reservoir st., Cambridge, who is swelled up over the baby boy that Joe Murphy, his pal, named after him. (Note to Ronald's Dad, Peter—That bank draft was a "life belt.")

Do the Troops

Some of the troops which spraddle out from this village like spokes from a huge wheel have not been stationed here long. Like all seasoned troopers, the first thing they did was to "reconnoiter" the neighborhood for such objectives as (1) potential sources of beer; (2) availability of pretty females; (3) the mileage to the nearest Red Cross Canteen. Yet, here, as elsewhere, there is always a large backlog of the non-frivolous types—if indeed the word "frivolous" has any meaning whatever in this hard worked army—who, as soon as they are settled, make themselves "solid" with the local citizenry by such little civilities and ordinaries of fellowship as is the U. S. soldiers' finest asset.

The local English think he's a folksy sort, this Yank, with a bit of music always on his tongue. So lo! Presently he knows where he can get his much-needed laundry washed and a spot of mending, and a congenial place beside the kitchen hearth—the closest substitute for Home, with a good-hearted, ruddy-faced foster mother who, like as not, has a son Bertie or 'Arry in the forces. The natives like the soldier's glib, strange talk, and the "doggies" like the family atmosphere.

Ask Pvt. Bart Connolly of 748½ East Third st., Southie—him as used to stevedore for T. J. Quinn and take the load off his muscles playing softball for St. Peter and Paul's team in the CY-league. Or ask Sergt. Carl Lechtenberg of 47 Fowler st., Dorchester, who runs the local P-Ex and recently met Jerry Indrisano, younger brother of Sheriff Andy, the old prize fighter.

Or Corp. Dick Panto, Jr., of 38 Forest Park ave., Springfield, who broods over the citrus scarcity here, and how he used to juggle tons of oranges for his dad's (Richard) fruit store. (Also he meditates on Mother Anna's lemon meringue pies.)

Fun Where They Find It

The men's pre-occupied minds prevent them from noticing the charm of these rural towns and outlying hollows and hills. They aren't here to drink in nature's beauty and nobody expects a doughboy with a 40 pound pack on his back and bleeding feet to go esthetic about a landscape. Motor transportation being what it is they are pretty firmly anchored to their localities. Town-going trucks are rare. So fun is where one finds it—usually "bunk fatigue" as they term plain lying on the flat of their spines while "shooting the breeze" with their nearest neighbor.

One matter that is a never ending course of wonder to the natives is the speed with which the soldiers rig up a shower bath and the promptness with which new arrivals give themselves a scouring. The writer does not mean to imply uncleanly habits to the rural English—merely that countfy plumbing is usually archaic and hot water a luxury. But the U. S. engineers have done marvels with an old boiler, a hunk of hose and a perforated tin can. Many a sleek and glistening U. S. hide has been lathered, rinsed and towelled in these makeshift wooden shelters.

Men like Corp. George Q. Dugan of 41 Brent st., Dorchester, who is still waiting for the chocolates that wife Peanni (Parmenter) mailed, and who used to run for Bill Prendergast's H. S. team. And Pfc Dick Bertone of 43 School st., Everett, the company cook, who contrary to Army custom, cooked in civil life, for the Felsway Restaurant (Somerville) and wears the wrist watch his fiancee, Margaret Ciano, sent.

And Paul L. Withington of 58 Pinckney st., Beacon Hill, who used to be a chauffeur, and contents himself with regards to Mr. and Mrs. Hanson.

And Pvt. Dick Chute of 46 Hingham st., Rockland, a medical aid man, who wears the Purple Heart for succoring the wounded in a live Tunisian mine field, and hopes to be home next year at this time, "so he can skate on Cushing's Pond."

The last afterglow has gone from the sky—the "reds" as these English farmers call the flaming reflections which betoken rain. There is no light along the rickety quaint thoroughfares of this age-ful town—not a glimmer that escapes the watchful M. P. patrol. Inside their billets stay-at-home men are busy with their simplicities, like children on a rainy day. There isn't much to do before the final bugle blows. But they're doing it.

DAD'S LEGACY TO UNSEEN GIRL HITS SNAG

Legal minds speculated today over the difficulties facing Middlesex Probate Court in carrying out the provisions of the will of a noted brain surgeon, who left one third of his estate to a small daughter he had never seen and whose present whereabouts is unknown.

The will is that of Dr. LeBaron Alexandre d'Artun, a native of Switzerland, who died last month in Lowell after five years of residence in this country.

In his bequest, he describes the child as "my minor daughter, born in Brussels, Belgium, in 1937 or 1938, and whose name is unknown to me."

Another third of the estate is bequeathed to his son, Alexis Cyril d'Artun, "last heard of in Monkstown, near Dublin, Ireland." The remaining third was left to the Armenian National Hospital in Yedi-Kala, Istanbul, Turkey, and the Armenian Hospital in Erivan, Soviet Armenia.

The will makes minor bequests to relatives and leaves $1 to his former wife, described as "Betty Joanna d'Artun, formerly my wife, of parts unknown."

His surgical instruments and books are left to St. Joseph's Hospital, Lowell, where he was a member of the staff, and $2000 is bequeathed to A. M. Sandoz, of Paris, a Swiss national, "in appreciation of financial and moral obligations."

HEALTH QUIZ

	YES	NO
Do you have poor digestion?	☐	☐
Do you feel headachy after eating?	☐	☐
Do you get sour or upset easily?	☐	☐
Do you feel tired—listless?	☐	☐

Now everyone knows that to get the good out of the food you eat—you must digest it properly. But what most people don't know is that Nature must produce about two pints of the digestive juice—liver bile—each day to help digest your food. If Nature fails—your food may remain undigested—lie sour and heavy in your digestive tract.

Thus, it is simple to see that one way to aid digestion is to increase the flow of liver bile. Now, Carter's Little Liver Pills start to increase this flow quickly for thousands—often in as little as thirty minutes. When bile flow increases, your digestion may improve. And, soon you're on the road to feeling better—which is what you're after.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's aid digestion after Nature's own order, when taken as directed. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today—at any drugstore—only 25¢. You will be glad you did.

Boy 'Wizard' in Court as Phone Line Pirate

Frank P. Smith, 18-year-old M. I. T. student described by police as an electrical "wizard" who figured out a scheme for making free telephone calls on his neighbors' lines, admits one problem stumped him—he couldn't make his voice sound like a dropping nickel so as to fool the pay phone operator.

Son of a Winchester business man, young Smith faced Municipal Court this morning on charges of receiving stolen goods and molesting and injuring telephone wires at his Marlboro st., Back Bay, apartment house.

For some weeks residents of the apartment house have been hearing strange voices over their phones. There were months also in which their telephone bills took sudden jumps which they were puzzled to account for.

A woman in an apartment adjoining Smith's picked up her phone one night and broke in upon a conversation. A girl was talking to a boy friend. When the woman's voice cut in to learn how they had got in on her line, the girl accused her boy friend of having a woman in his apartment. Angry talk ensued on both sides. The woman caught the name of the youth and told her suspicions to the phone company. Inspectors made a check.

They said they found a telephone cable had been tapped leading into the apartment house. It was spliced from Smith's bathroom window.

Inspectors say he plugged into one telephone line for a month, then into another, getting free service all the time, while subscribers on those lines got the bills. There was also a phone for which, they state, he could not account.

KWAJALEIN---The Dead: 8122 Japanese, 286 American . . . 30 to 1

Rest—American troops take time out to catch their breath during the invasion of the Marshall Islands. Here, a group rests on a beach near Kwajalein atoll, key base in the entire island group.

Stepping Stones—Continuing the relentless drive toward Tokyo, American troops have captured the Japanese-held Marshall Islands in a smashing all-out invasion battle which saw the strongly fortified base fall in seven days. Here are pictures taken during and after the thundering battle on the Kwajalein atoll. A Tragic Lesson

IT SHOULD BE interesting in a most instructive and constructive sense, to those Americans who suppose a Communistic way of life in the United States would be something new and beneficial, to be reminded that it had a very early trial in America and instead of being beneficial had dire and almost disastrous consequences.

James Truslow Adams' book, "The American," discusses this significant but all but forgotten phase of early American history in a manner that erects valuable guide-posts along our present path.

Mr. Adams recalls that when the first permanent settlement in North America was established at Jamestown, Virginia, in 1607, the colonists were Englishmen of various sorts and conditions on a mission of economic rehabilitation —not just for themselves, but for England itself.

The English colonists who established Jamestown had been induced to do so by the prospect of a new and better kind of life.

Since the way of life then prevalent in England—that of making a man's ability to earn and acquire his possessions the condition of having them—had not been in all ways perfect, the urge was upon the colonists to seek perfection in a different way.

The different way agreed upon was that everything produced by the skill and labor of all them would be pooled in a common store, from which each would draw according to his needs—the Communistic way, in short.

The experiment was thereupon conducted, and with the following results as Mr. Adams relates:

"The blueprint planning for the colony by the theorists at home included the idea of Communism, which has never worked in a civilized community but which crops up every now and then to allure certain types of mind which ignore the realities of human nature.

"The colonists were to work not for themselves as individuals but for a 'common store' into which the results of their labor were to be placed and from which they would draw for their necessities.

"The experiment went on disastrously for some years. Without the incentive of personal gain for personal thought and work, ambition disappeared and the morale of the community fell to almost zero. Anything more different from the wisdom of Queen Elizabeth in enlisting the energy of every man in the state by allowing the able and adventurous to heap the full rewards of their energy and daring could not be conceived.

"When under the rule of Sir Thomas Dale as Governor a new course was taken, and each man was allotted three acres of his own and, as John Rolfe wrote, they could sit under their own 'fig tree in safety, gathering and reaping the fruits of their labors with much joy and comfort,' the effect was instantaneous.

"CAPTAIN JOHN SMITH COMMENTED THAT 'WHEN OUR PEOPLE WERE FED OUT OF THE COMMON STORE, AND LABOURED JOINTLY TOGETHER, GLAD WAS HE (SIC) COULD SLIP FROM HIS LABOUR, OR SLUMBER OVER HIS TASKE. HE CARED NOT HOW, NAY THE MOST HONEST AMONG THEM WOULD HARDLY TAKE SO MUCH TRUE PAINES IN A WEEKE, AS NOW FOR THEMSELVES THEY WILL DOE IN A DAY: NEITHER CARED THEY FOR THE INCREASE, PRESUMING THAT HOWSOEVER THE HARVEST PROSPERED THE GENERALL STORE MUST MAINTAINE THEM, SO THAT WEE REAPED NOT SO MUCH CORNE FROM THE LABOURS OF THIRTIE AS NOW THREE OR FOUR DO PROVIDE FOR THEMSELVES.' "

It was a lasting lesson for America, as Mr. Adams suggests, for after more than three hundred years the American nation still resists the Communistic philosophy of sustaining the indolent upon the goods of provident and industrious men.

Safety in Sea Power

PRESIDENT D. STEWART IGLEHART of the Grace Line, an important American commercial shipping enterprise, sees a vital lesson in the fact that twice in our recent history the United States has entered a war of transport without ADEQUATE transport.

"In 1941 as in 1917," he writes in the New York Journal of Commerce, "the country found itself in a great war, each war a war of transport.

"And each time at vast expense, with unnecessary loss of life, and disruption of the national economy, a miracle has been achieved and disaster averted.

"Never in history has there been such a munitions production program, never such enormous shipyard production, as that of the United States in the last two years."

But Mr. Iglehart does not believe the United States should put its trust in miracles.

He believes the United States, now having again the greatest Merchant Marine and maritime industries in the world, as it has several times had in the past, should now KEEP that position.

A boat at midnight sent alone,
To drift upon the moonless sea,
A lute whose leading chord is gone
A wounded bird, that hath but one,
Imperfect wing to soar upon.
Are like I am, without thee.
—THOMAS MOORE.

THIS is quoted upon the insistent request of a young matron whose husband is a member of the Seabees . . . Men should shave twice a day. Once in the morning. Once in the evening before dinner. So states a feminine contemporary. The lady says women are growing weary of "caresses from men with beards that bristle." Well, gentlemen, since she puts it that way perhaps the squawk is worth our careful consideration. But how can a man with a tender skin shave twice a day? I shall have to take that up with the shaving experts of the Mellon Institute of Pittsburgh, Pa. In the meanwhile, perhaps we should shave in the evening instead of the morning and keep the ladies pleased.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Do you wear spectacles? A—Not yet . . . Q—If you are so crazy about Brooklyn, why don't you go back there? A—My wife won't let me . . . Q—How about Bill Terry saying baseball is a cheap business? A—Most baseball magnates have always been cheap. Johnny Evers was never paid over $4000 a season. Mordecai "Three-Fingered" Brown received as tops $3500. That also was the most "Big Ed" Walsh was paid. Now some stars receive good salaries, but many fine players are miserably rewarded. As for what the magnates make, take Charles F. Ebbetts of the Dodgers; he left a million and a half dollars, all made from baseball . . . Q—How long have women in general been smoking cigarettes in public? A—For about 25 years. General public smoking by women started right after World War I.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL. "Serving Food for Food's Sake." That is the slogan of Jack E. E. Davis, Western restaurant owner. Wonder what E. E. in the middle of Jack's name stands for. Probably Elmer Egbert. I knew a real estate man named C. C. C. Tatum. He told me he figured this unusual arrangement of initial had brought him a lot of business during his career as it appeared to make his name unforgettable . . . Twenty-three out of every 100 American families have less income than before the war. Thirty-six out of every 100 families have the same income. The boys in Washington should keep that in mind. Some of the legislators seem to think all families are enjoying increased incomes since the war started. A peculiar angle to this situation is that people who have less or the same income do not do half so much complaining about taxes as those whose incomes have been greatly increased.

PASSING BY: Betty Brunk Stedman. Winner of the 1943 Mrs. America bathing beauty contest. Originally from Chicago, she is now a New York City housewife. How about your wife, sir? Do you think she is "Mrs. America" material? As I said before, if she is why not enter her in the 1944 contest? She might get a job in the movies and could keep you for a pet. If the little lady has a good figure but is somewhat overweight, you could start training her down now . . . Nat Fleischer. Next to Hype Igoe the best informed man in boxing in the United States. Nat's hobby is collecting boxing curios. He has the belt presented to Charlie Mitchell for fighting a 39-round draw with John L. Sullivan at Chantilly, France.

ASIDES: Byron Allbaugh is willing to bet he can build a home in California and equip it with heat, air conditioning, lights and refrigeration and no wires of any kind will enter the house. Mr. Allbaugh says he will get all the power necessary from sunshine. All right, mister, if you think he can't do it why not take his offer to bet he can? Since they are reviving so many old songs on the radio, why doesn't somebody sing "Alexander, Don't You Love Your Baby No More?" Stella Mayhew popularized that. Dinah Shore or Georgia Gibbs could sing it all right.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Tuesday—Standing waiting in the station yesterday afternoon, I saw something which typifies what must be happening to thousands of young women and girls in this country. A young woman with a child in her arms kissed a serviceman good-bye. She watched him go down the steps with a smile on her face, and kept the baby waving, and then she turned away and the tears sparkled in her eyes.

I remembered something I had heard a young woman say not long before: "We've never been separated since we were married. What will I do by myself? How do I decide about the children? I want to do something to help the country and to feel that I am helping him, too, but I just don't feel I can take it and make the decisions alone."

OF COURSE SHE CAN TAKE IT and does take it. And thousaands of young women all over the country are making decisions, are going to work, are taking care of their children, and even the children are learning to take it. They look for their fathers, some of whom have never left them before. The world seems a strange one without "daddy" to come in in the evening, to listen to what they have been doing, to help them mend a toy, and to carry them upstairs to bed.

★ ★ ★

WE ARE A FORTUNATE NATION, nevertheless. War is not on our doorsteps. We are not living under enemy rule. We haven't had to see our boys taken off in labor drafts, our girls taken out of our villages and cities to even worse fates. Oh, the world is a sad place to live in these days, and God grant we learn our lesson. It is not enough to hate war. We must have power to build for peace and we must be willing to make the sacrifices which that entails.

Hollywood . . . . By Louella O. Parsons

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—Abel Green, editor of Variety, tells me Cary Grant is the choice to play the late Sime Silverman, publisher of Variety.

I couldn't help but think Sime would be pleased and amused, because no one could look more unlike him than Cary. The life story of the man who founded the trade paper offers a world of possibilities. Sime was associated with the Broadway that existed when I first came to New York, when the writers crowded the corners and actors made the Astor Hotel lobby their headquarters.

Dolores Del Rio

I had only one occasion to appeal to Sime, and I must say he came through 100 per cent. When I was sent West for my health, I begged him not to use the dread word tuberculosis, and never in all the time I was sick was my illness mentioned in his paper. His boy, Sid, publisher of Variety, is co-operating with Warners on the writing of Sime's colorful story, and both he and Jack Warner favor Cary.

IF ANY non-professional has more friends in Hollywood than Jill Winkler, lovely widow of Otto Winkler (who crashed in the plane with Carole Lombard), I don't know who she is. And all of these friends, I know, will be interested to learn that Jill has turned manager and is sponsoring the career of the beautiful, blonde torch singer, Imogene Lynn. The first thing Jill did was change the name of the songbird to Gene Clark. And 20th Century-Fox is so interested it is testing Gene for a long-term contract. Sue Carol did awfully well with her "discovery," Alan Ladd, and Jill is just as interested as Sue in finding newcomers and helping them get a break.

MARY ANITA LOOS' letter from Mexico City caught up with me in New York while I was lunching with her aunt, Anita Loos. Mary Anita writes: "Margo and I are having such a whirl we never quite get to bed before dawn. Last night we went to the premiere of Dolores Del Rio's new film, 'Maria Candelaria.' It's wonderful and so is Dolores, looking as beautiful as ever although she wears no makeup. Carmen Figueroa tossed a big party at Ciro's afterwards. There is one actor here, a cross between Valentino and Tyrone Power, who would be a sensation in Hollywood. His name is Davad Silva."

HEART-WARMING to see all the loyal friends and writers gathered at Robert Ripley's apartment to do honor to Joseph Connolly, head of King Features Syndicate. Those who work for Joe give him a love and loyalty that continues year after year, and the Ripley party commemorated his birthday. Bugs Baer with his Louise, Prunella Wood, Jimmie and Marjorie Young, Eddie Rickenbacker, the Ted Sauciers, Russell Patterson, Vyvyan Donner and many others gathered around the dinner table. Witty were the speeches and sincere the birthday wishes. Bob Ripley is a grand host and he made the evening an occasion—one we'll all remember.

SNAPSHOTS OF NEW YORK AND HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Rumor is that Constance Worth (George Brent's ex), is secretly sealed to Johnny Dunn, Los Angeles business man; Mary Pickford, according to a New York jeweler, is selling some of her famous emeralds and turning the money over to the Red Cross; Willie Wyler is in New York and the other night I glimpsed Laird Cregar with Doris LeRoy and Mrs. Danny Kaye in a large party; Ella Logan did so well in England, Italy and North Africa she was presented with a half wing from a Messerschmitt, the gift of one of our generals. She probably can exhibit it and raise a fortune for war bonds.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 9—The government will shortly release a Technicolor film showing the battle of Tarawa and nothing you have yet seen on film or read will make you realize what a ghastly and horrible thing an actual battle is. There are no punches pulled, the camera is in action with the Marines in action. This picture may be hard for an audience to take, but the Marines took it.

Bing Crosby

It starts with Marine barges first turning back and then finally making the landing under terrific fire. There wasn't one tree on the entire island of Tarawa that wasn't hit. Of the 4000 Japs on the island, only seven were taken prisoners. A number of Koreans, slave laborers for the Japs, surrendered when they could.

A Jap Red Cross truck, loaded with ammunition, is shown being blown up. The Marines had a massive convoy consisting of three battleships which were sunk at Pearl Harbor. For supreme suspense, that shuffle of the three Marines who approach a Jap stronghold to see if there are any Japs still there.

A SPLENDID BOOK is "The Rise of the American Film" by Lewis Jacobs. This is not a new book, but it is one of the better and more recent histories of the movies.

It tells that the moving picture as we know it today was seen for the first time in America on April 23, 1896, and had its premier at Koster and Bial's Music Hall, which is now the site of R. H. Macy's.

In Pittsburgh a couple of business men, who would later be called exhibitors, "converted an empty store into a movie theater . . . With discarded and surplus grand opera accessories, Harris and Davis gave their store-theater a luxurious appearance which distinguished it from other store-theaters and arcades and impressed the spectators. They added the innovation of piano accompanient, which increased the grand air of the show. Then, to advertise their theater's cheapness and at the same time maintain its dignity, they named it the 'Nickelodeon.'"

Double or Quits

By George E. Sokolsky

THE PATTERN of Wendell Willkie's "campaign speeches" for 1944 elaborated itself in his speech on taxes. He is planning to outdo Roosevelt. He is going to play Roosevelt doubles. If Roosevelt wants $8,000,000,000 of new taxes, Willkie will make it $16,000,000,000. There is a theory in all this: if the people have elected Roosevelt three times on the doctrine of "spend and spend, tax and tax, elect and elect," maybe they'll elect Willkie once on the doctrine of "tax twice as much."

There is not a word in Willkie's speech on where the money is to come from—not one word. He says: ". . . We have a single duty: to tax ourselves now beyond any limit that we have hitherto imagined possible." He does not tell the American people that the top brackets are being tapped for as much as the traffic will bear: that some Americans are already paying so fully on Federal, State and local taxes as to amount to a capital levy because they are paying more than their income.

HE DOES NOT SAY that the white collared class, faced by doubled taxes and a 40 per cent increase in the cost of living, and frozen salaries, is becoming economically and socially paralyzed. He does not say that this huge tax which he proposes for the American people of this generation has to be loaded on the shoulders of the wage-earners who are earning less than $5000 a year.

If I am wrong about this, I should like Mr. Willkie to explain in detail, citing figures and setting forth a plan in specific tax rates to prove that I am wrong. Any man who proposes to double Mr. Roosevelt's tax program should provide some statistical data to substantiate his ideas. I read the speech and I do not find such data in it. I find generalities, round-term statements and broad conclusions. Mr. Willkie may have this factual and statistical data, but if he has any of it, he is keeping the secret to himself. All that he has given us is the Q. E. D.

THERE IS A CURIOUS FALLACY in Mr. Willkie's reasoning, namely, that a government debt mortgaging the future is somehow immoral. The fact is that unless that debt is excessive, which is a difficult decision to reach, it is an excellent form of investment for those who seek non-speculative bonds for the provisioning of old-age and the protection of widows and orphans.

Among the best securities in the world are British "consols" which go back to before the American Revolution. For a century, this form of government debt has provided the investing public with a security of the highest merit, and although that debt has never been liquidated, its value for investment purposes continues excellent.

There is no reason to believe that the war bonds which the American people are today purchasing in such huge quantities will not prove an excellent investment 25 or even 50 years from now. Of course, the financial advisers of the government will have to be ultra-conservative in not issuing more of these bonds than the national income can service. We shall undoubtedly require about $6,000,000,000 a year to take care of our indebtedness for many years to come, but if we achieve a national income of $140,000,000,000 a year, we can handle that debt.

IF WE SINK to a national income of $80,000,000,000 a year, we shall not be able to service it. Our problem then is to build up our national income—to see to it that there is enough work for our people, that there is no devaluation of currency, that sufficient capital is left over to the individual for investment in private enterprise, that the peaks and valleys of the economic cycle are sufficiently flattened out to prevent wild inflation and miserable depressions.

If Mr. Willkie or anyone else can contribute wholesome, constructive proposals in this direction, they will be welcomed. But we are not playing double or quits.

Fragrant Cream Aids Skin

Beauty

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

ANY WOMAN CAN LOOK LOVELIER, a noted beautician says . . . And, that's more truth than poetry, I quickly add . . . for a clear skin, bright eyes, flattering makeup, well-groomed hair and hands bring radiant self-confidence . . . make even characterless clothes distinctive . . . and lend the self-confidence of poised assurance and popularity.

In social or professional life . . . beauty is every woman's inalienable right . . . it is her greatest asset . . . and a clean, clear complexion is especially desirable.

In a modern, simplified system of beauty care . . . devised for the modern woman . . . to help her improve and maintain her loveliness in the limited time that modern obligations of home, social and business life leave at her disposal . . . this noted cosmetic authority has developed a rich, emollient type of cream . . . made by a modern process.

The skin of the woman of today . . . especially the city woman . . . is subjected to the ravages of over-heated apartments, of soot, dust and minute particles of oil . . . which form a film on the skin. It is the undersurface skin of most women which is so dry . . . deficient in natural oils . . . and to keep it smooth and supple . . . to aid in preventing fine surface lines and wrinkles that usually follow neglect . . . a special treatment is both desirable and necessary.

For the medium dry skin . . . the type of skin condition to which most women are subject . . . this velvet of roses cream . . . to be applied to the face, throat and neck after the skin has been thoroughly cleansed . . . and left on over night is urged.

It is made from the attar of roses . . . and is delightfully scented. Attar . . . as you probably know . . . is the fragrant essential oil extracted from rose petals, especially of the damask rose . . . and when included in a cream furthers the effectiveness of the cream itself.

When used daily, this attar of roses cream keeps the skin better lubricated and helps discourage the lines and wrinkles . . . makes the skin appear more supple and pliant . . . and gives it a look of freshness . . . like the beautiful rose itself. It is just the thing to take care of that winter dryness most skins have encountered these past cold months . . . and will help you to face the spring with a new, virile, glowy look.

The makers of this cream want you to get better acquainted with the goodness of this product . . . and starting Friday . . . the regular $2.25 jar . . . which holds approximately four ounces . . . will be on sale for $1.25.

For the name of this dry skin cream to make your skin rose-petal smooth and soft, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, except the week-end, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

YOUR BEAUTY is what you make it . . . and since it is every woman's inalienable right . . . and her choicest asset . . . you can achieve greater loveliness if you rose-cream your skin into supple and pliant freshness. M-G-M Star Donna Reed has that enviable luminous complexion which every woman can have with care and attention.

Choice Sauces Stretch Canned Fish Delicacies

By MARTHA LEE

THE WAR FOOD ADMINISTRATION predicts that canned fish supplies for civilians will be slightly larger this year than last, but will be less than half as large as quantities used in normal years before the war.

The cook who knows her sauces, however, need not be daunted by smaller supplies. Very often a good sauce will make a can of fish go twice as far and taste and look twice as delicious. Two of the most useful sauces for stretching canned fish are white sauce and tomato sauce. Both are simple to make, good with many kinds of fish and shellfish, and easy to vary and make into different and dressier sauces. White sauce, for example, is the basis for curry sauce or egg sauce, both favorites with fish. And tomato sauce is the basis for Spanish or Creole sauce.

Here is the method for making white sauce for fish:

WHITE SAUCE

2 tbsp. butter or other fat
2 tbsp. flour 1 cup milk
Pepper and salt to taste

Blend melted fat and flour thoroughly, then add cold milk and season. Heat and stir constantly until thickened, then cook in upper part of double boiler 10 minutes longer.

To convert this plain sauce into egg sauce, add 2 chopped hard-cooked eggs and 1 tablespoon lemon juice. Then just before taking from the stove, a well beaten egg yolk may be mixed into the sauce to make it richer.

To make an attractive curry sauce, mix 2 teaspoons of curry powder with the flour in making white sauce. Then cook 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper, ¼ cup chopped parsley and a little chopped onion in fat for a few minutes and add to the sauce. Curried fish is usually served with flaky boiled rice.

Any juice in the can should be used as part of the liquid in the white sauce. The rich liquid in a can of salmon, for example, is fine-flavored and valuable for vitamins A and D.

As for tomato sauce, especially good with fish flakes or shrimp and other seafood, the basic recipe is like white sauce except that the liquid is tomato rather than milk.

TOMATO SAUCE

2 tbsp. flour
2 tbsp. butter or other fat
2 cups canned tomato or juice
Salt and pepper
Grated onion and a bit of powdered cloves or allspice, if desired

Follow directions for making white sauce.

A variation of tomato sauce is Creole sauce, a favorite to serve with the clear meat of different kinds of seafood.

CREOLE SAUCE

⅓ cup minced onion
1 cup minced sweet pepper
2 cups canned tomato
¼ tbsp. melted butter or other fat
1 garlic clove, minced
1 tsp. salt
¾ tsp. pepper
⅛ tsp. paprika

Place the butter, onion, pepper and garlic in a saucepan and cook about 10 minutes or until tender. Then add tomato and seasoning. Cook for 5 minutes.

Tomato sherry sauce may be made by adding ¼ cup of sherry to the tomato sauce.

If a tomato-cheese sauce is desired, add ½ cup grated cheese and 1 teaspoon prepared mustard. Cook until cheese is melted.

Manners at Movies

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN, 1—Where should a girl stand when she is waiting for a man to buy movie or theater tickets?

2—If the girl reaches the door of the lobby first, should she stand there and wait until he comes to open the door, or should she open it? C. M.

1—While her host stands in line to get the tickets, the girl should stand aside and wait for him in the lobby. She should be out of the way of the others standing in the line

2—She should wait and give the man a chance to open the door. A polite escort wants to do courtesies of this kind . . . if a girl will give him the opportunity and not dash ahead impulsively and "independently."

He Wants All His Gifts Back

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX—I went with a young man for three years and we had planned to marry next June. His father and mother came over and discussed our marriage with my parents. My boy friend talks things over with his mother and then tells me about it.

We had an argument a few weeks ago about going out New Year's Eve. His parents wanted to go wherever we went. My father and mother never go any place with us. And I'm afraid now we're going to break up on account of this argument.

For my birthday he gave me a beautiful ring, and this past year he gave me a cedar chest. Now he wants both gifts back. Do you think I should give them to him? C. K.

When a young man asks for the return of his presents, it shows a "shabby streak," don't you think so? The question of an engagement ring is a different matter altogether. The contract is broken and the thing which stands for the contract should be returned. But with birthday gifts and the cedar chest, well, it shows a side that might be trying to live with.

As for his parents wanting to go out with you on New Year's Eve, it seems to me few young people would care for such a foursome on that date. If you decide to break with him, in your place I should return his gifts, for my own satisfaction, though the request is unusual.

Tip to Service Girl

If you go to the station to see your service-beau off to camp, and his family are there too, don't try to monopolize him, don't demand all his attention. Even if you're engaged to him, don't steal the show from the members of his family.

Sports Clothes to Be Loud

By BETTINA BEDWELL

A GIRL can be as loud as she wants to when it comes to picking out her active sports and country clothes. That's what the fashion dictators say, and they invite you to pick loud by making some of the prettiest dresses, shorts and shirts in the noisiest colors.

Not only will colors be brazen, but there will be plaids and checks to add the din of the pattern to the effect. Shorts made of plaid taffeta in red and green, are a case in point.

Claire McCardell makes these in pure silk taffeta, and pairs them with an emerald green silk shantung shirt, in the model sketched by Miss Dulin. You can hear them coming, but for all of that they are pretty nice.

Turkish Quake Toll 2500

LONDON, Feb. 9 (INS)—Impairment of communications between the Turkish capital and areas stricken in Turkey's recent earthquake still hampered efforts today to ascertain all casualties. However, one official Ankara report listed 2500 killed.

She Rolls 'Em

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 9 (AP)—A girl wearing slacks entered a hotel ballroom with her escort. The manager explained slacks weren't considered appropriate attire for dancing.

The girl smiled, tripped to the powder room and returned shortly with no slacks visible.

Then she danced all evening—her trousers rolled up under her coat.

Individuals Urged To Buy More Bonds

Boston and Massachusetts launch the final week of the Fourth War Loan drive today, determined to boost the daily buying average by the public to the $10,000,000 needed to reach the state's quota of $258,000,000.

Massachusetts still lags behind the nation as a whole in sales to individuals with a total of $98,700,000 to date. This is only 38.2 per cent of the state's quota for sales to individuals.

Bond purchases by savings banks, insurance companies and corporations total $492,600,000, or 91.9 per cent of the Massachusetts quota of $536,000,000 for institutional buying.

An expected spur in the lagging sales is the opening of booths in the Boston public schools. Hundreds of parents called at the booths to buy bonds yesterday in the opening of the three-day sale based on the appeal of the "Junior Minute Men."

One of yesterday's outstanding items was the purchase of a $1000 bond by a 12-year-old Dorchester boy as a pledge of his devotion to his 24-year-old uncle, now a prisoner of war in Germany.

The boy, Robert Hartian, of Treadway st., used his own savings to buy the bond. His uncle, Pvt. Peter Hartian, was captured in North Africa in Jan., 1943.

Dorchester also is seeking to have 19,723 bonds of $1000 denomination purchased in tribute to each service man in that district, which would add almost $20,000,000 to the total being sought in the drive.

Cohasset's display of the town's men and women in service has helped the South Shore community to go over the top in its quota of $402.000.

This Home-Mixed Cough Relief Is Hard To Beat

Very Easy to Make. No Cooking. Saves Big Money.

No matter what you've been using for coughs due to colds, you'll be the first to admit that this surprising relief, mixed in your own kitchen, can't be surpassed, for real results.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed—a child could do it. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then put 2½ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of really amazing cough relief—about four times as much for your money. Tastes fine—children love it—and it never spoils.

You can feel this home mixture taking right hold of a cough. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases soreness and difficult breathing, and let's you sleep. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, a most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial membranes. Just try it, and if not satisfied, your money will be refunded.

It's the Long, Slow Baking that Makes 'Em Extra Good

B & M Brick-Oven Baked Beans (unlike ordinary canned beans) are baked in the real, time-honored New England way: Baked and baked and baked, slowly, all day long, 'till each single bean is a treat of good, old-fashioned flavor . . . mealy and tender and golden brown.

So . . . even though we are again baking these hearty and better-tasting baked beans in our Down East ovens . . . they cannot be rushed to your Grocer or you.

Keep that in mind. And, whenever your Grocer is temporarily out of these New England favorites, understand that his supply is limited . . . and don't blame him. Burnham & Morrill Company, Portland 2, Maine.

Bette, Rosalind Shine in 2 Holdover Films in Boston

Home town girls Bette Davis and Rosalind Russell are holding their own on local screens this week.

After two hit weeks at the Metropolitan Theater, "Old Acquaintance," in which Mis Davis is co-starred with the the mercurial Miriam Hopkins, moves tomorrow to the Paramount and Fenway screens with all indications of continued capacity houses.

Seen here in the original stage version with Jane Cowl and Peggy Wood, "Old Acquaintance," under Vincent Sherman's expert direction, has discovered countless old and new admirers. As you may know, it is the story of two lifetime friends who are worlds apart in their concept of life yet inextricably bound together by myriad mutual experiences. Gig Young, John Loder, Dolores Moran and Roscoe Karns head an excellent supporting cast.

★ ★ ★

Miss Russell, a somewhat awkward tyro in earlier Copley Theater productions, plays the title role in the holdover attraction at Loew's State and Orpheum Theaters. The picture is "What A Woman!" Quite aptly titled, you'll agree, after viewing career-woman Russell romping up the ladder of success.

The fabulous creature has everything, it would seem, except a heart, and Brian Aherne discovers that for her before the final unreeling.

'Lady Takes Chance' Coming to Uptown

"A Lady Takes a Chance," the Jean Arthur-John Wayne co-starrer, moves to the Uptown screen tomorrow for a week's run, together with "Gangway For Tomorrow," with Margo and John Carradine.

Sonny Tufts Due At RKO-Boston

Boston's Sonny Tufts will share the RKO Boston screen with Olivia de Havilland tomorrow when "Government Girl," the new film attraction, will split the bill with the stage show headed by Louis Prima and his band and Wee Bonnie Baker.

The stage show is geared for laughs, with the infectious Prima literally living by his song slogan, "Be Happy."

Shy Bonnie Baker, whose vocalizing of "Oh, Johnny" made her a star overnight; gabby Frank Gaby, the Four Franks, young song-and-dance team, are bound to please.

Marine Saga At Majestic

"To the Shores of Tripoli," which would be the story of the United States Marines, brings John Payne, Maureen O'Hara and Randolph Scott to the Majestic screen today.

The fighting marines are shown in action at the San Diego Marine Base, where John Payne, raw recruit, is turned into a go-getting leatherneck under the supervision of Sergt. Scott.

On the same bill is the Tyrone Power-Gene Tierney starring "Son Of Fury."

Ralph Jusko Adds To Concert List

Ralph Jusko, bass, has made several additions to his announced program for this evening's concert in Jordan Hall.

The revised program includes "Hanour and Arms," by Haendel; Falconieri's "O Belissimi Cappelli,; "Vittoria Milo Core," Carissimi; "Mano Gimtine," Kacanauskas; "Ne Margi Savaeliai," Tallot-Kelpsa; "Tykiai Tykiai," arranged by Currie; "Zalipe Lankelej," Tallot-Kelpsa; "Du Bist die Ruh," Schubert; "Ungeduld," Schubert; "Verrat," Brahms; "Die Mainacht," Brahms; "Seeman's Abschied," Wolf;; Woltan's Abschied from Walkyrie, Wagner; "Homing," del Riego; "Moon Marketing," Weaver.

George Kraska State Manager

George Kraska, formerly manager and operator of the Fine Arts Theater, succeeds James Tibbetts as manager of Loew's State. Mr. Tibbetts is on his way into the Army.

Mr. Kraska is known in Boston for his many years' association with the most artistic film importations from Europe.

Swedish Royalty Coming to Hub

By BETTY ALDEN

BOSTON socialites will have a pleasant meeting with a member of the Swedish Royal family next Monday when the former Countess Elsa Bernadotte, now Mrs. Hugo Cedergren of Stockholm, will be guest of honor at a reception given by Mrs. Robert Gray Dodge of Raleigh st.

Mrs. Cedergren, a niece of the King of Sweden and cousin of Crown Princess Martha of Norway, recently arrived in the U. S. A. with her husband, who is director of War Prisoner's Aid. She has been in Washington attending meetings of the executive committee of the World's Y. W. C. A., of which she is vice-president. While in the Capital she was honored at a reception given at the home of Chief Justice and Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone.

As a neutral, Mrs. Cedergren is allowed to visit internment camps of women prisoners in both Germany and the United States. She has been in Germany three times during the war and while in the United States will visit the internment camp in Texas.

Many Boston women interested in international affairs are being invited to Mrs. Dodge's reception. Assisting the hostess will be Mrs. Thomas M. Claflin, president of the Boston Y. W. C. A., and Mrs. Albert F. Bemis, Mrs. Leonard Carmichael, Mrs. James O. Foss, Miss Eleanor H. Jones, Mrs. C. Douglas Mercer, Mrs. Lucius E. Thayer and Miss M. Louise Walworth, Bostonian member of the national Y. W. C. A. interpretation committee.

WHEN CAPT. RALPH HORNBLOWER, Jr., notified his fiancee, Priscilla Blumer, that he had obtained leave but not one sufficiently long enough to permit him to come home, Priscilla packed her bags and wired him to meet her in St. Louis. She is lucky in having a grandmother, Mrs. Henry C. Scott, in St. Louis, at whose home the reception is taking place following the couple's marriage today at Christ Church Cathedral.

Members of both families, the Thomas S. Blumers of Marlboro st., and Ralph Hornblowers of Louisburg sq., are in St. Louis for the wedding, and Mrs. Chandler Hovey, Jr., sister of the bride, is matron of honor. Ralph, Jr., now stationed in Texas, was with the Marines at Guadalcanal.

Get a loan of $20 to $300 at Household on the strength of your job. No wage assignment—no endorsers or guarantors required. $50 repaid in 4 monthly instalments of $13.45 each costs only $3.84. See sample plans in table. We also make car and furniture loans up to $1000. Loans of $300 and less are made under state supervision. Payments on loans of $300 or less include charges at Household's rate of 3% per month on that part of a balance not exceeding $100, and 2% per month on that part of a balance in excess of $100. Loans above $300 to $1000 are made at the low rate of 1½% per month on unpaid balance.

Dez Wadsworth Names Hulse Over Gil Dodds

By JACK CONWAY

GILL DODDS and Bill Hulse will furnish the greatest mile race ever held in this city at the B. A. A. games at the Garden on Saturday night, according to Dez Wadsworth. It is Dez's prediction that the race will be run inside of 4.10 which was the record for the Unicorn meet that was set by Glenn Cunningham in 1938.

"I look for the Hunter Mile to be a two man race between Dodds and Hulse," said Dez. "Last Saturday night at the Millrose A. A. games in New York, Dodds won over Hulse and the latter will make a mighty bid to even the score. The race will be run inside of 4.10."

Bill Hulse

I pressed Dez for his opinion as to who would win.

"I like Hulse even though I know Jack Ryder won't approve of my prediction," was the quick reply. "For thrills the race will beat anything ever held in Boston. Donald Burnham of Dartmouth may also be a starter, but I do not think he is in good enough condition to hold his own with Dodds and Hulse."

Tom Kanaly, who has been associated with Dez and Lieut.-Col. Walter Brown in staging B. A. A. games, says that Walter Mehl of Wisconsin did the fastest mile ever run indoors in Boston when he covered the distance in 4:09.7 at the William Prout games at the Garden in 1941.

"Dodds was timed for the mile in 4:06.1 when he finished second to Gunder Hagg in the Stadium last Summer," declared Kanaly. "Hulse covered a mile in 4.06 for an American record when he raced second to Hagg at Cleveland."

★ ★ ★

Mile Always Thrills

LOOKING BACK over B. A. A. games, the mile run has always been a standout event. This was true back in the days when Abel Kiviat and Oscar Hedlund were battling for honors as it is today.

John Paul Jones, the great Cornell runner, never ran in the Hunter mile, but he once competed in a handicap mile at the B. A. A. games. Jones' greatest local running feat was when he captured the intercollege mile at the Stadium. Jones was a loosely built runner, had a long, looping stride, and always finished with a terrific rush.

Joie Ray of Chicago furnished his share of thrills in mile races at B. A. A. games. In recent years, Glenn Cunningham, Gene Venzke, Gill Dodds and Bill Hulse have been the stars.

Dodds is one of the most unassuming athletes I have ever seen. All he asks is the privilege of testing his speed and lasting powers against the best men in the world.

Dodds proved a good trouper last summer when he toured with Hagg. He received very little attention from the promoters, but did not complain. He gave his best efforts with each start even though he knew he had very little chance of winning from Hagg.

Hunter Is Sure Starter

WHILE I WAS talking with Wadsworth and Kanaly there was a long distance call.

"Hello, Ollie," said Kanaly. "It is good to hear you are coming to Boston for the two-mile race at the B. A. A. games."

Kanaly was talking with Ensign Oliver H. Hunter, former Notre Dame star now at Columbia.

"The two-mile race will also be a two-man affair," said Wadsworth. "It will be a battle between Ollie Hunter and Jim Rafferty. Hunter was surprised when Rafferty beat him in New York in the Millrose games, for in their previous meeting Hunter had won easily.

"I do not believe either Hunter or Rafferty will break Gregg Rice's B. A. A. record. Hunter is a protege of Rice and he will try hard to come through with a win.

"Tommy Quinn of the Navy, formerly of Notre Dame, and Joe McCluskey will also take part in the two mile race. In New York last Saturday night, McCloskey received the greatest ovation of any athlete who competed in the Millrose games."

Wadsworth stated that Dr. Griffin D. Horrax, famous brain specialist who is a graduate of Williams College, will be referee of the B. A. A. Games.

"Dr. Horrax is a New England man and he will do a top job," said Dez. "It is unnecessary to go outside of New England to get the best of track officials. There will be a meeting of the B. A. A. officials on Friday night at the Hotel Lenox. Every man will know before the games just what his duties are. This should help make the meet better."

Bill Henry Breaks Court Scoring Record

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 9 (AP)—Bill Henry of Rice hung up a new Southwest Conference basketball scoring record last night by tallying 41 points against the Texas Aggies. Rice won, 67 to 33.

The old Conference scoring record was held by Johnny Adams of Arkansas who accounted for 36 points in a single game two years ago.

Taunton Dog Ass'n Asks 50-Day Permit

The Taunton Greyhound Ass'n, Inc., has applied for a license to conduct a 50-day dog racing meeting at Dighton, between April 18 and Oct. 31, the State Racing Commission announced.

A 50-day meeting was conducted at this track by this association in 1942 and a 21-day meeting at Raynham Park, Raynham, in 1943.

Bowls 15 Hours

CHICAGO, Feb. 9 (AP)—Harry Nordendale, Chicago manufacturer whose hobby is bowling, is ready to put in a claim as the sport's marathon champion this year.

Nordendale and Walter Munn of Elizabeth, N. J., were scheduled to roll 50 games, but after 35 games Munn withdrew. Nordendale, however, immediately accepted the challenge of Junie McMahon, another New Jersey kegler, and they kept on shooting for 33 games.

The Chicagoan, after 15 consecutive hours on the alleys, had split his series, winning from Munn and losing to McMahon.

B's Tear Into Canucks To Win With Gardiner

By BILL GRIMES

By reverting to the type of hockey that, years ago, had made them the most feared team in the league, the Bruins moved back into a tie for fourth place by shutting out Les Canadiens, 3 to 0, before a capacity crowd of 13,500, last night at the Garden.

Without Bill Cowley and "Busher" Jackson available, the Bruins weren't the favorites by long odds in the pre-game predictions. So, it was a profitable night for the short-enders.

It was apparent at the start of the game that the Rossmen had decided to discard their war time brand of hockey. The Bruins tore into the French team from the opening faceoff and at the close of the first period, the records credited Bert Gardiner with ten saves and Bill Durnan with only three, proving that the Flying Frenchmen had the better of the play by more than 3 to 1. But, if a record had been kept of the punishment dealt out, the Bruins would have had the call by even a wider margin.

CANADIENS SLOWED DOWN

The Rossmen were out to slow down Les Canadiens to their speed. And they were successful. Dit Clapper, Jack Crawford and Pat Egan tried to flatten every Canadien they got near.

Even the Bruin forwards, particularly Ben Guidolin, were throwing blocks at opponents. The middle period was almost a repetition of the opening chapter, except that the Rossmen had eight shots on Durnan and Gardiner was called upon to make 14 saves. The Bruin strategy at the start of the final period was to kill the puck and protect their own goal lead. And, they were smart enough after a Buz Boll tally had put them two goals up, to try to pen the Frenchmen in Montreal territory.

FANS HAIL GARDNER

Bert Gardiner received an ovation from the fans as he skated off the ice at the close of the game. And, it was a deserving tribute, for Gardiner who has blown hot and cold, played one of the finest games of his career. He made 38 saves and a majority of them were on shots which were labeled "goal." And, although he was beaten three times, Bill Durnan wasn't any soft touch.

At this stage of the N. H. L. race, Les Canadiens have lost only four games, two to the Bruins and two to Toronto. And, the Maple Leafs and Rossmen each had one shut out to their credit over the Flying Frenchmen.

Gil Dodds a Dad And It's a Boy!

An heir to America's mile king, famed runner Gilbert Dodds, who is studying to be a minister at Gordon College in the Back Bay, was born this morning at 2:47 at the Boston Lying-In Hospital.

Dodds, who is entered in the Hunter mile at the B. A. A. games at the Garden Saturday, breathless with excitement, exclaimed: "Now I don't know what condition I'll be in to run on Saturday!" He had previously announced he expected to run in 4:08 flat.

Terror, White In Arena Mat Go

Duration champion, the Golden Terror, will have more than a 100-pound advantage over challenger Ed "Strangler" White, former University of Alabama football star, when the pair collide for the crown in the main bout of the weekly wrestling show at the Arena tonight.

White, disqualified from two previous bouts because of his slambang style, expects to be allowed to go along his own style of wrestling in retaliation for the use of the "secret weapon" by the 379-pound Terror. It has been this blinding instrument that has staved off five previous assaults on the hooded grappler's crown and although no referee has detected it, the fans and mat experts are certain that the Terror is employing some sort of illegal weapon.

Cowley Shines as Bruins Coach

The Bruins will be on their way to Chicago this afternoon . . . Naturally, they are in high spirits after shutting out Les Canadiens . . . It's tough enough to beat the Flying Frenchmen, not to mention holding them scoreless . . . If the Rossmen had checked back as faithfully in most of the previous games as they did last night, Gardiner would have made a far more favorable impression . . . And, the Bruins wouldn't be battling to make the play-offs . . . They'd have been in with points to spare.

Bill Cowley is hitting for .667 as a coach . . . He has two wins and only one loss . . . The Bruins will be without Art Ross and Win Green on this trip.

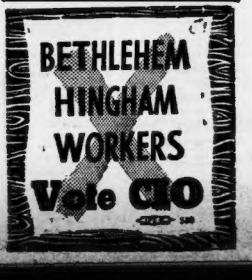
Eddie Burke, who played with the old Tigers, Cubs and Bruins, is in town on a business trip . . . He looks like Frank Fallon's twin, give and take a pound or two . . . Jack Crawford was in a thick fog for a few minutes after he was spilled last night but his head cleared as soon as he skated off the ice.

Young Russ Kopak has developed into a real Bruin asset . . . He's a smart hockey player and is as game as a pebble . . . Russ tips the scale at 142 . . . Al Rittinger, another former Olympics kid, is also coming along fast.

Although he was beaten for three goals, Bill Durnan turned in a grand performance in Les Canadiens' nets . . . His outstanding saves were against Herbie Cain and Bep Guidolin, both of whom got clean breaks and held their fire until he seemed as though they couldn't miss . . . But, Durnan kicked both shots into the corner . . . Phil Watson gives it the old college try at all times.

"Butch" Bouchard drew a 10-minute misconduct penalty for popping off (probably profanely) at Referee Norman Lamport . . . The fans hopped on Bouchard when he tossed little Russ Kopak into the boards . . . During the first period, there were many vicious cross checks and it was a miracle that some of the players weren't injured . . . Due to his lay-off because of a bad shoulder, "Toe" Blake wasn't skating as of yore last night . . . Yank Boyd, who has been coaching the Rhode Island Reds since Johnny Mitchell went on a scouting trip, came up from Providence to see the Bruins work on Les Canadiens . . . The Bruins will tackle the Detroit Red Wings, Sunday night, at the Garden . . . It will be their last home appearance until Feb. 29, when they'll play the Maple Leafs.

GRIMES.



FIVE SERGEANTS SERIES GUESTS OF LANDIS

CHICAGO Feb. 9 (AP)—All it will cost five Army sergeants to witness the 1944 World Series eight months hence is their sixth sense.

They will be the guests of Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball's 77-year-old commissioner. They wrote Landis that their "sixth sense" told them they would be back to attend the fall classic. The sergeants, presumably fighting overseas, advised Landis they would like to have the honor of being the first holders of tickets for the 1944 series games "no matter where played," and in so doing would be made "very happy."

BOYS OVERSEAS

Landis said he did not know where the soldiers were stationed, where their homes were or anything concerning their background. They merely signed their letter: "S/Sergt. Rodney N. Lewis, S/Sergt. Philip H. Candiloro, S/Sergt. James C. Putnam, S/Sergt. Eisl G. McFillen, S/Sergt. Steve J. Nester."

Taking his well-known pen in hand, Landis sent them this letter, care of APO Postmaster, New York.

"Gentlemen:

"I am in receipt of your letter which bears no date—which, I suppose, must forever remain a military secret. I consider myself lucky to be dealing with five Army sergeants at a distance of whatever thousands of miles it is, rather than to be a member of a company and have five sergeants on my back. You will perceive I have had some contact with private soldiers during my 78 years. Having said this much about sergeants, I have got to add that my observation is that the private's bark at and about sergeants really doesn't express any desire to bite.

DATE WITH JUDGE

"More power to your sixth sense. You have a date with me at the 1944 World Series. Contact with me in time. We will see the ball games together.

"Wishing you and the whole outfit whatever worth-while thing there may be left in this pestered and bedeviled world.

"Truly yours,

"KENESAW M. LANDIS."

Deal to Buy Bums Planned In Braves Office, Is Belief

By BILL CORUM

NEW YORK, Feb. 9—Yesterday's most important development in the proposed sale of the Brooklyn Dodgers to Max C. Meyer and an associated group of local business men was on the negative side. It centered about the fact that neither Meyer nor Banker Geo. V. McLaughlin, the chief negotiators, were to be located at their usual places of business at any time during the day. Even at a late hour last evening, Mr. Meyer's residence reported that he had failed to show up for dinner.

The inference, if we did not mistake the inflection in the voice of the, we presumed, lady of the house, was that the dinner was good and cold. We are inclined to think that just the reverse is true of the deal for one of the best known and most popular ball clubs in the big leagues.

NOT PICKING DAISIES

Which doesn't mean that the deal will go through necessarily. Only that, in our opinion, it has an excellent chance of doing so.

Of course, George and Max may have spent the day picking daisies in Prospect Park. And please don't tell us that daisies don't bloom in February. The Brooklyn Chrysanthemum Leucanthemum, or ox-eyed daisy, (That'll hold that fellow Kieran for a while, I bet you), blooms whenever it jolly well pleases. What do you think a Brooklyn daisy is, a pansy!

True to its family tradition, however, the Brooklyn daisy won't "sing," or tell, if you prefer the use of the vernacular.

And that, in the matter of the sale of the Bums, also appears to be true of the Brooklyn banker and the Brooklyn jeweler, meaning, respectively, McLaughlin and Meyer.

If these two did wish to talk they could tell much that hasn't been printed to date about the sale of one of the most legally tied up properties in the history of baseball.

Not even a battery of Philadelphia lawyers could unravel all the legal tangles that beset the Brooks. Which will be the only thing that will block the sale of the club to Mr. Meyer and his associates, if it is blocked.

PLANNED IN HUB

To begin with, the recent sale by Meyer and Manager Casey Stengel of their stock in the Boston Braves and the proposed purchase of the Dodgers is all a part of one pattern. As was previously hinted here at the time of the sale of Braves, they have been working on this proposition for months and weeks, not for days.

There isn't the slightest element of a publicity angle in it. People who are seeking publicity don't hide from reporters. Nor does a man whose aim is publicity put up cash that he may lose to bind an option on stock that he doesn't at least hope to buy. It's true that Meyer has made a couple of previous stabs at acquiring control of the Brooklyns, that having been his dream for years.

But when I talked to him at the Baseball Writers' Dinner Sunday night, he scarcely could have been more optimistic.

"Sometimes just when a fellow feels his hopes are realized," he, however, warned, "something happens to thwart him. All I know myself for sure right now is that we have the money, we want the ball club, that things look good, and that we should have a final answer in the next couple of days."

RICKEY ASTONISHES

I see from the morning papers where Branch Rickey, the head man of the Brooklyn organization, is quoted as saying that he knows nothing about this proposed deal. If he is correctly quoted, that astonishes me.

Two or three times during the baseball meetings of the past week-end, Rickey excused himself on the grounds of pressing business elsewhere. It wouldn't have had to be this business, naturally. But it seems improbable that Branch would have been absenting himself from the type of discussions he delights in, to phone Leo Durocher or Danny Kaye in Florida. Perhaps he was trying to buy Bobo Newsom for late summer delivery.

Headmasters Sanction Meet

The headmasters' association, that had voted previously to abolish any interleague hockey competition, yesterday sanctioned the Metropolitan tournament that will start around the first of March.

The new setup allows the leading team from each of the three more prominent interscholastic loops—the Greater Boston, Bay State and Eastern Mass.—plus one invited team, probably from the western part of the state, to compete in the tourney.

The group also charged the directors of the various leagues to draft a uniform set of rules in regard to fighting that has been prevalent in schoolboy games all the year.

Connie Beats Trap in Lift

ELMIRA, N. Y., Feb. 9 (AP)—Basic training would probably be a breeze for Connie Mack.

As the 81-year-old manager of the American League's Philadelphia Athletics was descending from his hotel room to attend a banquet, the elevator went berserk and dropped to the bottom of the shaft. Trapped there for 20 minutes, he and his companions climbed out via ladders through a small hole at the top

OH, WHAT A BEAUTIFUL MOURNING!

Honest, folks are getting positively lyrical in their praises of Carstairs White Seal whiskey as they mourn its scarcity. You'd think it was the world's only—and who are we to say it isn't? But such praise only stiffens our resolve to keep the quality high. So you'll go a bit short of the Perfectly Balanced Blend, perhaps—but you'll keep on good terms with your taste!
